MINNEAPOLIS, MN, December 19, 2019 - Argos Risk, a leading provider of Third-Party Risk Intelligence (TPRI) services for managing and monitoring the financial viability and overall health of third-party relationships, today announced its 2020 Kickoff release to over 1,000 users throughout the United States.

Looking back on 2019, this has been an exciting year for Argos Risk. The enhanced capabilities continue to strengthen AR Surveillance's value and allow us to further expand outside of financial services into healthcare, retail, and transportation. "We have a proven track-record of success within the financial services industry and continue to serve the needs of our clients and partners nationwide. Expanding beyond FIs and helping companies manage risk, fulfill needs, and provide reliable and comprehensive third-party risk intelligence in other industries is extremely exciting."

Through our vision and customer engagement, we continue to strengthen AR Surveillance's capabilities and the additional value we can offer. The new features further enhance our market-leading position with advanced reporting and alerts along with functionality; designed to optimize risk mitigation resources and accelerate a company's next phase of growth.

"It continues to be our long-term vision to enable customers to make business decisions with confidence and feel self-assured about knowing their customer and their customers customer.
